

Willett Builders, Inc. Continues Renovations for Allegany County DPW Building

BUFFALO, NY, April 1, 2019— Willett Builders, Inc., a full service construction firm comprised of contracting, construction management, and fabrication divisions is pleased with their ongoing work for the Allegany County Department of Public Works (DPW.)

Founded in 1806, Allegany County, NY is the home to over 48,000 people spread across over 1,000 square miles.

The DPW building houses administrative, buildings & grounds, engineering, highway, & waste departments.

The scope of work involves office building interior upgrades & renovations to ground floor and main floor including layout, finishes, electrical, HVAC and security upgrades. Renovations will occur to over 12,000 sq ft within the building which will include a complete removal and construction of a new layout allowing for the reconfiguration and reorganization of several departments. Work also includes removal and reinstallation of several finishes, flooring, ceilings, power/data, and more.

“These comprehensive renovations will vastly improve the functionality and workflow of Allegany County’s DPW,” said Willett Builders, Inc., owner Ryan Willett. “Modernizing several aspects of the building will extend the life of the building, and strengthen the environment all of the employees work in. This is a project we are very proud to be a part of as we continue to add to our portfolio of successful construction and renovation projects around the northeast.”
